

Matthew Drath

2/20/2023

Peer Review of Milestone 1

I am looking at the Academy Award Database and I think it is an interesting concept. I see that there is some code that has been started I don't have the software to look into the project which made it hard to see what has been done with the project. But it appears in the README.md that all what you have done is outlined the project and created a proof of concept. I think grabbing the IMBD page about the movie or a link that would give some good information about each movie that will be in the project.